INTRODUCING INTEGRITY HEALTH & SAFETY

Integrity Health & Safety is a Supply Nation certified Indigenous-owned supplier of WHS products and services, founded by Liam Harte and Brad Goodwin, two Indigenous intensive care paramedics who served in the Australian Defence Force both here and abroad. They also sit on the boards of Local Health Districts in NSW, so are highly committed to healthcare.

Leading government and private sector organisations are fostering the growth of Indigenous businesses as part of Closing the Gap. For example, the Federal Government and various State Governments target to spend 3% or so of all contracts on certified Indigenous businesses.

Similarly, many leading corporates have Reconciliation Action Plans, are members of Supply Nation and similar, to embed Indigenous procurement in their supply chains.

Integrity Health & Safety is also proud of its Social Impact Commitment to fund Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander nurses for first aid, CPR, flu vaccination and leadership courses to assist the growth of healthcare capability in their communities and farther afield. Please view this 3-minute video on why Qantas works with Integrity Health & Safety.

Our customers are contributing to this initiative every time they engage with us.

Drug & Alcohol Testing

Drug and alcohol testing is critical for personal safety, and safe and productive workplaces.

Which is why Integrity Health & Safety has partnered with Australian-based Alcolizer Technology to deliver testing products and services for its customers.

More people have been tested for drugs and alcohol using Alcolizer Technology equipment than any other technology in the world.

Alcolizer places equal emphasis on innovation, R&D, design, manufacturing, and servicing its testing technology.

When engaging customers, Integrity Health & Safety is the Prime contracting party, and Alcolizer is its Subcontractor.

Integrity Health & Safety as Account Manager has overall responsibility to you, the customer.

Our Value Proposition

We believe that customers should ask not only what the product costs, but rather what is it WORTH to them.

Integrity Health & Safety offers more than just products. We believe in creating meaningful partnerships and delivering value beyond the bottom line. Our unique value proposition goes beyond the low prices, focusing on 6 key aspects.

Indigenous Procurement

As a Supply Nation certified Indigenous-owned supplier of WHS products & services, we partner with you to fulfill your supplier diversity goals which foster economic empowerment within Indigenous communities.

Managed by Healthcare Professionals

Led and managed by experienced healthcare professionals with deep industry knowledge and experience, we have a better understanding of your organization's specific needs, ensuring that our products and services align seamlessly with your goals.

Commitment to First Nations' Healthcare

We proudly support the advancement of healthcare professionals by allocating a portion of our profits to fund Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander nurses in furthering their education. By engaging with us, your organisation contributes to building healthcare capability in their communities and farther afield.

Exceptional Value and Quality

We firmly believe in providing exceptional value, uncompromising quality and exceptional service. By engaging with Integrity Health & Safety, you can rely on the superior performance of our offerings.

Long-Term Partnerships

We are committed to building enduring partnerships based on trust, collaboration, and shared values by using our customer-centric approach to ensure that your unique requirements will always be our top priority.

24/7 Service & Support

The breadth and depth of our customer logos attest to the value they place on our responsiveness for service and support at anytime, anywhere.

We may not always be the least expensive supplier – however, we will always provide you with the best ROI.
